

November 13-15, 2018 at the Nottawasaga Inn Resort & Convention Centre, Alliston, ON

LATORNELL
CONSERVATION SYMPOSIUM
CELEBRATING 25 YEARS

Four Conservation Leaders Honoured at the 2018 Latornell Conservation Symposium

2018 Latornell Leadership Award Recipients

Nels Conroy, Sudbury

Shelly Macpherson, Manotick

Brian Denney, Collingwood

Terry Murphy, Belleville

NEWMARKET, ON (November 19, 2018) Four Leaders were recognized at this year's Latornell Conservation Symposium for their achievements, impact and hard work within Ontario's conservation sector.

The Latornell Leadership Award is awarded to individuals who have demonstrated strong leadership accomplishments in the conservation field through work, career or volunteer experiences. They join a very select group of 99 recipients being recognized since 1999. Recipients of the Leadership Award were honoured at a gala luncheon on November 15th at the Nottawasaga Inn just outside of Alliston, Ontario.

The 2018 Conservation Leaders include:

Nels Conroy, Sudbury, Ontario – for his work as Chair of the Sudbury Source Protection Committee, protecting Sudbury and area's source of drinking water

Shelley Macpherson, Manotick, Ontario – for her work in the tough field of regulations enforcement which protects people and buildings from hazardous or vulnerable areas

Brian Denney, Collingwood, Ontario – for his work promoting sustainability and a diverse range of innovative programs while Chief Administrative Office with the largest Conservation Authority in Ontario, the Toronto Region Conservation Authority

Terry Murphy, Belleville, Ontario – for his years of work with Conservation Authorities (specifically Quinte Conservation) promoting education and stewardship in order to improve engagement in conservation among various members of the community.

"We're very lucky to have such passion and dedication in protecting and advancing Ontario's natural assets on our behalf," said Scott Peck, Chair of the Latornell Conservation Symposium.

“As Ontario has grown and developed, it sometimes seems like an uphill battle when you’re working in the conservation sector. But these four people have made significant and important strides that will have an impact today and for years to come. For that, we thank them!”

For more information on the award winners and the Latornell Conservation Symposium:
<http://www.latornell.ca/leadership-awards/>

For more information:

Jane Lewington, Marketing & Communications Specialist, Conservation Ontario
jlewington@conservationontario.ca 905.717.0301

Let's Chat!

Don't forget to follow our Twitter feed @ADLatornell and add the hashtags #latornell to your tweets to stay connected to important online conversations about Latornell. Click on the following icons to visit our online communities...and Let's Chat !

For More Information:

Karen Anderson and Mario Maillet, Symposium Coordinators
Latornell Conservation Symposium
1-888-274-1364 ext. 4
www.latornell.ca

c/o Conservation Ontario
120 Bayview Parkway
Newmarket, Ontario
L3Y 3W3
905-895-0716